DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1 – 31, drawn to an aerosol-particle analyzer, classified in class 422, subclass 83 for example.
- II. Claim 32, drawn to an aerosol-particle analyzer, classified in class 422, subclass 83 for example.
- III. Claim 33, drawn to an aerosol-particle analyzer, classified in class 422, subclass 83 for example.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I, II and III are independent and patentably distinct. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions have different modes of operation, different functions and different effects.

Group I is an aerosol-particle analyzer requiring an electrodynamic levitator, which is not required by the analyzer of Group II. Group I further requires a PDCS CDAL output and a separate droplet analysis subsystem (DAS), which are not required by the analyzers of Groups II or III.

Group II is an aerosol-particle analyzer requiring a combined particle-droplet-collision and analysis subsystem (PDCAS), which is not required by the analyzer of

Art Unit: 1641

Group I. Further, Group II requires that the PDCAS consists of a linear quadrupole (LQ), which holds the CDAL and particles near the LQ axis as they are drawn upward through the LQ by the flow of the gas, and while the particles flow past the CDAL because the CDAL is heavier, so that the particles can combine with the CDAL so that analyte in the CDAL can be measured, which is not required by the analyzers of Groups I or III.

Group III is an aerosol-particle analyzer requiring a combined particle-droplet-collision and analysis subsystem (PDCAS), which is not required by the analyzer of Group I. Further, Group III requires that the PDCAS consists of an electrodynamic levitator, which is not required by the analyzer of Group II.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, and the search required for one group is not required for another, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

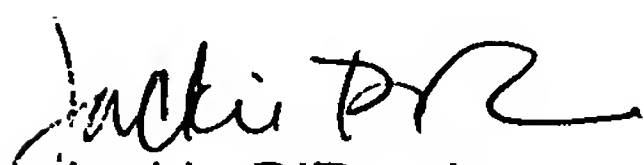

A telephone call was made to Stephen Bloor on October 3, 2005 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

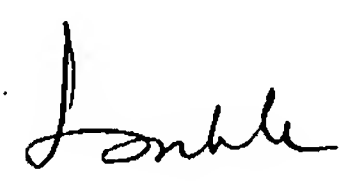

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Jacqueline DiRamio whose telephone number is 571-272-8785. The examiner can normally be reached on M-F 9-5:30.
